

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE.

The object of the author of this volume, is the preservation of the names and services of the noble men, citizens of Carbon County, who served the country of their birth or adoption, during a period of danger, such as no nation ever experienced. The memory of the soldiers who saved the Republic of the United States from the destroying hand of a deeply-laid and long-premeditated Rebellion will be ever sacred in the hearts of the American people. It is due to the men who served faithfully in this great struggle, that their claims to the gratitude of their country should be distinctly recorded and preserved in a permanent form, so as to place it within the reach of all. It is with these views that the following record of the services of the Carbon County soldiers has been compiled. The author's aim has been to do justice to all, and as the greater portion of this work has been gathered from official sources, it is reliable and correct.

The companies are presented in the order of their organization, as near as possible. It will be observed that many names appear twice—such having re-enlisted. This is done in order not to mar the company organizations, and to present the rolls as they originally stood.

We have endeavored, at the expense of a great deal of labor and time to procure the name of every soldier from the county. But we do not pretend to have been successful in securing every one. We have simply done all we could, to make this work reliable and correct.

J. D. L.

The contributions of Carbon County in aid of suppressing the Slave-holders' Rebellion,—in proportion to her population,—is unequalled by any county in the State of Pennsylvania, and probably not surpassed by any community in any other State. Not only did this County furnish more men in proportion to her voting population, but the record of her soldiers is unsurpassed in point of bravery and endurance by any other troops. When the first call was made by President Lincoln for 75,000 troops for ninety days, Carbon County sent three full companies to Harrisburg in twenty-four hours. These companies were attached to the 6th Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers. Immediately afterwards a full company was raised for three years, and attached to the famous "Bucktail Rifles." Upon the expiration of the three months' campaign two companies were raised for the 28th Regiment, P. V.; four Companies for the 81st Regiment, P. V.; one Company for the 67th Regiment P. V.; one Company for the 4th Pennsylvania Cavalry; one Company for the 11th P. V.; a portion of a Company for the 53d Regiment, P. V.; and a portion of a Company for the 11th Pennsylvania Cavalry. Besides these, about a Company were scattered in different other Regiments.

On the next call for troops, in 1862, two more full Companies were organized for nine months, which were attached to the 132d Regiment, P. V. When the State was threatened with invasion in 1862, a large number of men volunteered for the emergency. In 1863 when Pennsylvania was invaded, the county sent over four hundred men to repel the invaders. In 1864, over two hundred men volunteered for one year.— Besides these volunteers from the county, the different sub-districts paid bounties to the amount of hundreds of thousands of dollars to other volunteers.

The record of the Carbon soldiers commands the admiration of the country. From the beginning to the end of the war our gallant sons were at "the front." In Western Virginia—at Falling Waters—from the battle of Drainesville, in 1861, to the surrender of Johnson's army in 1865, there was scarcely a battle fought but witnessed the fall of some brave Carbon County soldier. On the Peninsula, where fell MILLER, CONNER, SHURLOCK, ABBOTT, and a host of others; at Chancellorsville, where the noble CHAPMAN sealed his devotion to his country with his heart's blood; at Bull Run, where the brave HYNDMAN died, fighting to the last; at South Mountain where BITTERLING cheered on his command with his last breath; at Mine Run, where we lamented the fall of PHILLIPS, at Spottsylvania, and in the long struggle for the capture of Richmond, where fell HAWK, GINDER, HOOVER, MCGEE, PETERS and a host of others; in the last battle with Lee's army, where fell BOND, who had served from the very first call. At Gettysburg, Antietam, Fredericksburg, and a hundred other battle-fields where such men as Major Harkness, Captains Conner, Shields, Pryor, McLaughlin, Abbott, Marsh, Bieber, Patton and a thousand other brave Carbon County soldiers bled and won imperishable laurels.— In the struggles in the South-West, and in the long and fatiguing march of Sherman's army from Atlanta to the sea, in which many of the Carbon County men bled and died.—

Such men and such services have made up the Record which is presented in this volume.

While we point in sorrow to the long lists of the dead, we mourn with a pride which only such a record can inspire.— Such a record of heroism, where five-eighths of the soldiers sent from a community are killed and wounded. But, not only in bravery and heroic fighting is the record of these soldiers unequalled, but also in point of health and endurance. The grand record of casualties in the United States Volunteers during the war shows that double the number of soldiers died of disease as were killed in battle. The record contained in this volume, shows that THREE TIMES as many of the Carbon County Volunteers were killed in battle as died of disease. We give the record of officers, as follows :

One Brevet Brigadier General.

Three Colonels, of whom one was killed.

One Brevet Colonel, who was wounded.

Three Lieutenant Colonels, of whom one was killed and one wounded.

Three Majors, of whom one was killed and one wounded.

Twenty-eight Captains, of whom five were killed, one died and sixteen wounded.

Thirty-nine Lieutenants, of whom seven were killed and twenty wounded, making a total of seventy-eight officers furnished by Carbon County. Of this number FIFTEEN were killed, ONE died of disease, and thirty-nine wounded.

But it is not only the record of the officers that presents such unmistakable evidence of bravery and endurance. The men who filled the ranks have a record equally grand ; and it will stand for all time to come as a noble monument to the patriotism of little Carbon. While the remains of the loved ones rest peacefully in the dust of the battle-fields of the South; while we mourn the loss of so many of the noblest youths of our county; while fathers and mothers cherish the memory of patriotic sons, and widows and orphans that of husbands and fathers, we have the one proud consciousness that during a period of danger such as few nations have ever experienced, we were true to the legacy entrusted to us by the founders of this great nation. The people of Carbon county have the consciousness, that during the slave-holders' rebellion they discharged their whole duty.

Native and foreign alike served with honor and distinction, and it is but just to say of the German, Irish and Welsh, who form so large a proportion of the population of Carbon, that they came up nobly to the defence of their adopted country, and the list of deaths on many a battle-field attest the gallantry of the foreign portion of Carbon County Volunteers.

LIEUT.-COL. ELI T. CONNER.

When the first proclamation was issued by President Lincoln, calling for troops, in 1861, Carbon County, like other communities, gave forth one great throng of patriotism. In the excitement of the moment, when hundreds were ready to follow, they cast about them for a LEADER,—who was capable of taking command. Captain ELI T. CONNER, at that time commanding officer of the "Anderson Grays," was acknowledged to be the man for the occasion, and to him the masses looked. He opened a recruiting office, and in twenty-four hours had recruited three full companies of the best young men of the county. He declined the offer of a field office, preferring to remain with his company. He served during the three months' campaign as senior Captain of the 6th Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers.

Upon the expiration of his term of service, Captain Conner, (in connection with Colonel James Miller,) organized the gallant 81st Regiment, and on its completion was commissioned Major of said corps. On the Peninsula, he served with distinguished bravery, from the battle of Fair Oaks, to the final great and fearful struggle at Malvern Hill, where he fell. Immediately after the battle of Fair Oaks, Major Conner was promoted to Lieutenant Colonel, after which he commanded his regiment in all the battles during the campaign, until his death. Colonel Conner was born in Luzerne County, in 1832. His father, William Conner, settled in Mauch Chunk shortly afterwards, and died here in 1833. He was educated at Wyoming Seminary at Kingston, Luzerne County, and also subsequently attended a military school at Bristol, Pa. He was engaged as a civil engineer on the Lehigh Valley Railroad during the construction of the road, and was afterwards appointed Acting Engineer upon the slack water navigation of the Cape Fear River, in North Carolina, by Mr. E. A. Douglas. The climate not agreeing with him, he only remained in the south about a year, and returned to Mauch Chunk. Subsequently he again entered the service of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company, and in the winter of 1859-60, he made the survey of the Penn Haven and White Haven Railroad.

His first connection with the military of Carbon County was as Lieutenant of the "Carbon Guards" at Summit Hill. Having removed to Mauch Chunk, he was elected Captain of the "Cleaver Artillerists," which position he filled with much ability, until the fall of 1859, when the company was disbanded, and a new company organized—the "Anderson Greys," of which corps he was again elected Captain. When the war broke out, Captain Conner immediately signified his determination to enter the service of his country, and nearly every member of his company, with over two hundred others followed him.

Kind, prompt, intelligent and brave, no better officer, or truer friend to his country, fell during the war.

67TH REGT., PENNSYLVANIA VOLUNTEERS.

Colonel.—Horace B. Burnham.

Commissioned Lieutenant-Colonel of the 67th Regiment August 12, 1861. Participated with and most the time commanded his Regiment until January, 1864, when, having become incapable of further duty in the field, he was ordered to Washington, D. C. On the expiration of his term of service, he was appointed by President Lincoln, Major and Judge Advocate U. S. Army, in the Department of New Mexico. On March 13, 1865, he received two promotions, by brevet, conferring upon him the rank of Colonel, "for faithful and meritorious services, during the war."

Corporal—Joseph Shadel,

Died November 28, 1862, at Belle Plains, Va., of disease.

*Sergeant Musselman possessed those beautiful traits of character which constitute the good soldier,—morality, intelligence, unflinching bravery, and devotion. Though only twenty years of age, his manly qualities had won for him the admiration and love of all who knew him. Generous and noble-hearted to a fault, his loss was deeply felt by his friends and companions in arms. In the bloody battle of Antietam, when his regiment was relieved, though already once wounded, he refused to leave the field, and joining with the Irish Brigade in one of their irresistible charges, he fell at the head of the column shot through the brain.

GENERAL CHARLES ALBRIGHT.

This officer attained the highest rank conferred upon any of Carbon County's soldiers. He is the only one of the large number of gallant officers who represented Carbon County in the army during the war, who attained a higher rank than that of Colonel. General Albright entered the army as Major of the 132nd Regiment P. V., his commission dating August 22, 1862. At the battle of Antietam, Md., four weeks later, he distinguished himself by unsurpassed coolness and bravery. On September 28th, 1862, he was promoted to Lieutenant Colonel, in which capacity he commanded his regiment through the valley from Harper's Ferry to the Rappahannock, and at the battle of Fredericksburg, December 13th, 1862. In this bloody conflict his indomitable courage and unflinching bravery won for him the most flattering encomiums from his Brigade and Division commanders. On the 26th of January, 1863, he was promoted to Colonel. During the winter and spring of 1863, he most of the time commanded a Brigade in the 3rd Division, 2nd Army Corps.

At the battle of Chancellorsville, in May, 1863, during the fierce fighting of the third day, Colonel Albright rendered splendid service with his little Brigade, in repelling the advance of the enemy.

The term of service of his regiment having expired shortly after this battle, he was mustered out, and returned to private life—which proved, however, to be of short duration.

Upon the invasion of Pennsylvania, in June, 1863, he immediately offered his services to the State, and organized the 34th Regiment Pennsylvania Militia. He was placed in command of Camp Muhlenberg at Reading, and subsequently was sent to Philadelphia, where he commanded until after the battle of Gettysburg, when his regiment was discharged, and he returned home. In August, 1864, when President Lincoln made his last urgent call for troops to re-enforce the struggling armies in the field, believing with all loyal men, that the time had come when a prompt out-pouring of the arm-bearing men of the North, would decide the war. Colonel Albright once more unsheathed his sword, and offered his services to the country. He received authority to organize the 202nd Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers, and in very few days, had his regiment organized and equipped, and awaiting marching orders. When his regiment reached Alexandria, Colonel Albright was placed in command of the line of the Orange and Alexandria Railroad, between Rectortown and White Plains, Va. During the rebellion there was probably no more disagreeable position for an officer to be placed into, than that of governing a country, infested by guerrillas, where all species of outrages were daily committed by those bands of desperadoes. The section of country which Colonel Albright was placed in command of, being the guerrilla Moseby's favorite stamping ground, promised an active field. The lenient policy which had heretofore encouraged all manner of infamies by the guerrilla inhabitants of this section of the country, immediately gave way to the firm and decided measures adopted by Colonel Albright, and soon these guerrilla outrages became less frequent, and finally ceased almost altogether.

When the Orange and Alexandria Railroad was finally abandoned by the Government, Colonel Albright was placed in command of Fairfax Station, and shortly afterwards commenced the construction of elaborate fortifications at that place, which were completed shortly before the surrender of Lee's Army. While in command of this post, his services to his country were partially rewarded by a brevet promotion to BRIGADIER GENERAL.

While stationed at this point, General Albright learned that a body of Moseby's guerrillas, several hundred strong, intended to surprise and capture a large wagon train, a few miles from Fairfax Station. He immediately ordered out a squadron of the 8th Illinois Cavalry—which was attached to his command—and intercepted the enemy near Wolf Run Shoals, and compelled him to give battle. After several charges, in which General Albright led his command in person, he succeeded in routing the rebels—killing, wounding, and capturing a considerable number of men and horses. In this gallant fight General Albright displayed that dashing courage which characterized him in all the engagements in which he participated. Dashing into the midst of them and discharging his pistols almost in the faces of the enemy. By his promptness and energy, and the brave example set his command he saved a large amount of Government property, as well as defeating an insolent and cruel foe to the country.

After the cessation of hostilities in the South, the 202nd Regiment was sent to the Coal Regions of Carbon and Schuylkill Counties, and General Albright placed in command of the Lehigh District, Department of Pennsylvania. He was mustered out of service with his regiment, in August, 1865.

General Albright is a young man; and a true American in every sense of the word. An uncompromising and most ardent lover of freedom and his country, his whole heart was in the struggle for the preservation of the American Union, and the free institutions under which its people have prospered. Of indomitable bravery, fine executive ability, and his highest ambition, being the faithful execution of his duty. No blemish rests upon the military record of General Charles Albright.

COL. JAMES MILLER.

This is a name that will live long in the annals of Carbon County. So long as a spark of patriotism burns in the hearts of our people ; so long as deeds of heroism, patriotic devotion to country, and true soldierly and gentlemanly qualities are appreciated, so long will the name and memory of Colonel Miller be remembered in Carbon County. He fell, an early victim to the accursed rebellion which slayed thousands of the best and truest men of the country.

Col. Miller was born in South Easton in the year 1825.—When quite a youth, he removed from Easton to Mauch Chunk, and established himself in business. He became a member of the Stockton Artillerists, when first organized by Captain John Leisenring, and when the Mexican War broke out in 1846, he raised a company based upon the Stockton Artillerists, and bearing that name. The company marched from Mauch Chunk on the 24th of December, 1846, and at Pittsburg were attached to the 2nd Regiment of Volunteers, Col. Roberts. From this point they went via the Ohio and Mississippi, to Mexico, and joined Gen. Scott's army before Vera Cruz.

Captain Miller was subsequently engaged in every battle from Vera Cruz to the City of Mexico. At the battle of Chapultepec, Capt. Miller was selected by Gen. Quitman to join Major Twiggs, who had a separate command of 240 picked men, constituting the storming party of the Division. The day previous to the storming of Chapultepec, the storming party were engaged in important reconnoissances in front of the enemy's works, the result of which led to the discovery of the position of the enemy's strongest batteries. On the morning of the 13th of September, at the dawn of day, the storming party were moved out in front of the Division.—The number of Captain Miller's men had been reduced, by casualties, to twenty-six.

Before reaching the base of Chapultepec, Major Twiggs was disabled and his party severely cut up. After the fall of Major Twiggs, the command devolved upon Captain Miller, who, though himself wounded, led the assaulting party to the castle of Chepultepec. Captain Miller's command were among the first to enter. More than half the party were either killed or wounded. From thence battery after battery was stormed, until they reached the gates of the city, Capt. Miller still in command.

Upon the breaking out of the rebellion, Col. Miller, who was then engaged in the coal business in New York, returned to Carbon County, and commenced the organization of the "Chippewa Regiment,"—the 81st Penn'a. Vols., and was commissioned Colonel. The subsequent record of this regiment shows that it was one of the very best and most reliable regiments in the United States service. Col. Miller was a severe disciplinarian; fearless, impulsive, totally regardless of personal considerations in the discharge of duties, he was always at the post of danger.

He was killed at the battle of Fair Oaks, June 1, 1862, the first battle in which his regiment participated. Had he been spared to the country, there is but little doubt but that he would have attained high rank.

COL. JOHN D. BERTOLETTE,

Entered the service April 21st, 1861, as 2nd Lieutenant of Company A, 6th Reg't. Penn'a. Vols. Promoted to 1st Lieutenant and Adjutant, May 1, 1861. Mustered out with the Regiment July 28, 1861. Re-enlisted August 20, 1861, as 1st Lieutenant and Adjutant of the 48th Regiment Penna. Vols. Served with his regiment until April 23rd, 1862, when he was appointed A. A. A. G. on Gen. James Nagle's staff, commanding First Brigade, 2nd Division, Department of North Carolina. On the 25th of September, 1862, he was appointed by President Lincoln, Assistant Adjutant General of Volunteers, with the rank of Captain. Promoted Major by brevet, December 2nd, 1864, "for gallant and distinguished services at the battles of Poplar Grove Church, Hatcher's Run, and during the campaign before Richmond, Va." Promoted to Lieutenant-Colonel by brevet, March 25, 1865, "for gallantry and distinguished services at Fort Steadman, Va." Promoted to Colonel by brevet, April 2nd, 1865, "for gallant and meritorious services in the assault upon the enemy's lines in front of Fort Sedgwick, Va." Col. Bertollette was severely wounded in the battle of Bull Run, August 29, 1862, then serving on Gen. Nagle's Staff.

There is probably no soldier in the State of Colonel Bertollette's rank who has a fairer record, or who served his country more faithfully during the rebellion. He was repeatedly highly complimented in General Orders, for bravery and gallant conduct in battle.

DRAFTED MEN FOR NINE MONTHS.

The following is a complete list of the men drafted in Car-County for nine months in 1862. It is but proper to say the enrollment was a very imperfect one, and that this includes men who were then in the army; and also many
